

KVCR & FNX BOARD REPORT

PINKALICIOUS & PETERIFFIC

Pinkalicious and Peteriffic, a new animated series on PBS based on the popular Pinkalicious book series, debuted in February on KVCR, PBS for the Inland Empire. To promote this new show and the Empire Network we hosted a series of Pinkalicious events at three Inland Empire daycares including the San Bernardino Valley College Child Development Center. Our crew shot promotional video with children from the daycare: "I'm an Empire Kid!" At all three events there were fun activity stations including a station, where children watched a screening of an episode of Pinkalicious and Peteriffic. A second station had a KVCR crew member reading a Peteriffic book to the children, and at the third station, the kids enjoyed a show-themed arts and crafts activity. The Kindercare in Colton had 75 children in attendance, the Kindercare in Rancho Cucamonga had 60 children participating. And the SBVC Child Development Center we visited with over 200 children. It was a pinkalicious day!

This Month in Radio

Congratulations to KVCR reporter, Benjamin Purper, who has been awarded the Center for Health Journalism’s 2018 California Fellowship from the USC Annenberg School of Journalism. He will be provided a week of training and a small grant to cover expenses. The Fellowship seminars will run from March 18-22 at USC in Los Angeles. Ben, who started as a volunteer intern at 91.9 KVCR, is now an astute reporter who continues to seek out learning opportunities in order to serve our local communities and the national NPR audience with reliable news.

In public radio news, NPR’s annual Tiny Desk Contest is officially open for entries! TDC is the brainchild of veteran public radio journalist and producer, Bob Boilen who invites ANY musician or group to record themselves performing an original song with a desk of some sort present in the video. Thousands of bands and individuals have contributed music videos to the Tiny Desk Contest website through their entries and many have gained national recognition. This is an example of public radio as a uniting force, bringing local musicians into the national music scene.

The family of NPR hosts is expanding across platforms and programs. Two journalists are joining public radio’s weekday newsmagazines. Ailsa Chang will join All Things Considered hosts Audie Cornish, Mary Louise Kelly and Ari Shapiro. Noel King will join David Greene, Steve Inskeep and Rachel Martin as the fourth host of Morning Edition. Both award-winning journalists will continue to report and co-host Planet Money in their expanded roles. Ailsa brings deep experience to her new post, with her career at NPR including work with Planet Money and as a congressional correspondent for the Washington desk. Noel comes to her new role with a long history of making complex financial stories relate able to public radio listeners at Planet Money and other public radio programs. She has also served as a fill-in at Weekend All Things Considered during her tenure at NPR.

Production Team Keeping Busy

Black History Month – KVCRTV honored African American History month by inviting local community leaders to the KVCRTV studio to acknowledge the contributions of individuals from the Inland Empire who helped create awareness, and effected change for people of color. Iris Hill, co-host of Hidden Hikes, presented the story of Etta James, a California native singer who transcended various genres, winning six Grammys and 17 Blues Music awards throughout her career. The story of civil rights activist Frances Grice, who helped desegregate San Bernardino schools in the 1960s was presented by SBCCD Board of Trustees President, Joseph Williams. CEO of Stone Consultants, Terrance Stone shared the story of Paul Green, an American playwright from North Carolina during the early 1900s whose work concerned representing the social and racial injustices by people of color in the South.

Rosa Parks Statue Unveiling

– As a State of the Empire segment for African American History month we produced a segment that unveiled Rosa Park’s statue. KVCRTV followed Assemblymember Eloise Gómez Reyes and Angela Sadler-Williamson, (Rosa Park’s cousin), to witness Rosa Parks statue unveiling. The roaring applause of the crowd showed the excitement for Ms. Parks to finally have her statue. Assemblymember Reyes spoke on the importance and the symbolism the statue represents for the fight of equality.

SBVCollege Welding Project Competition

– KVCRTV is documenting the San Bernardino Valley College “Wolverine Welding Club’s entry in the second phase of the “ESAB Weld It Forward” competition. SBVC is one of 3 post-secondary schools selected to compete. The students are building a giant megaphone. A production crew recorded SBVC students practicing welds and prepping materials, and interviewed two students.

Veterans Pledge Specials with Local Vets

PBS' REFLECTIONS ON THE VIETNAM WAR Goes behind-the-scenes of the epic series with Ken Burns, Lynn Novick and the filmmaking team. Hosted by Tom Brokaw, the program includes interviews with Ken Burns and Lynn Novick and veteran stories generated by PBS stations across the country. STORIES FROM THE VIETNAM WAR is a second show from PBS stations across the country inspired by Ken Burns & Lynn Novick's film "The Vietnam War" who gathered powerful, personal and inspiring stories from veterans, anti-war activists, and refugees about their experiences related to The Vietnam War. Both shows are part of the March Pledge Drive beginning March 1 through March 18. The programs will air on March 10.

KVCR has produced local veterans stories that will be used as inserts during the local KVCR pledge breaks. We invited military journalist MC2 Hansel Pintos to interview veterans from that era. He spoke with Rev Ralph Cooper Sr, who shared his war experiences, some of which was the first time his thought were shared. Pintos also spoke with the Rev's son, Ralph Cooper Jr, (KVCR's Foundation Director) for who shared being the son of Vietnam veteran and his feelings of learning of his father's experience. We also interviewed Ronnie Guyer whose photographs were used in the Burns documentary. Peter Young, a Vietnam veteran was also interviewed and shared his work at the Riverside National Cemetery.

Just in time for March Pledge Drive we are offering PBS Nerd T-Shirts. Become a member of KVCR and wear your PBS Nerd shirt proudly just like our hosts From Scratch pictured in red holding their PBS coffee mugs. Our hosts from Hidden Hikes featured below, were also in the studio to record TV spots inviting viewers to become members. The hosts from our original programming series shared the good work the Empire Network is doing in the community and why its important to support your local PBS station. We want PBS supporters to donate during our pledge time (March 1st-18th) and in return they will receive the tee or mug as a thank-you gift.
